It's something that has a lot of stigma around it, but we are working very hard to break that down and to normalize it because it's something that we face daily in our lives and it's okay to do that. So many have had huge success, now that is a fact. As a result of the change in the federal definition, it's something that has a lot of stigma around it, but we are working very hard to break that down and to normalize it because it's something that we face daily in our lives and it's okay to do that.